HISTORY

UNDERSTAND THE PAST. PREPARE FOR THE FUTURE

Studying History at Huron cultivates empathy, brings precision and energy to your writing, and connects you to professional networks. It prepares Leaders with Heart for critical and engaged citizenship. In a world rocked by questions about truth, evidence and the nature of human understanding, history matters.

Delve into the living connections between historical study and current global debates, such as the modern anti-slavery movement, the struggle for gender equality, indigenous issues and the nature of democracy, law and individual freedoms.

Our dynamic programs offer unparalleled opportunities for hands-on archival research, digital scholarship, research travel, local and global partnerships, and collaboration with faculty.

NEW IN 2017: MINOR IN PUBLIC HISTORY

Huron's joint minor in Public History is the only undergraduate Public History program in Canada. It is supported by Huron's established strengths in community-based and active history, and our partnerships with museums, heritage organizations, libraries and archives. You can combine the module with a History Honours Specialization, Major or Specialization, or with modules in other disciplines at Huron or at Western, such as Archeology, Classical Studies, Geography, Visual Art, and Media, Information and Technoculture.

NEW HURON AND HARVARD

As the only HBX CORe partner in Ontario, Huron students can earn a Credential of Readiness from Harvard's Business School.

BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Every student participates in community-based research as part of learning the historian's craft. Recent examples include:

- Phantoms of the Past: Slavery, Resistance, History and Memory in the Atlantic World. A transatlantic research exchange in which students travel to London, Bath and Bristol in the United Kingdom, exploring 18th and 19th-century slavery and antislavery movements through histories, texts, images and cultural memory.
- Transatlantic Digital Victorians: A transatlantic research project with Huddersfield University in the U.K. to work with local community heritage partners to photograph and research historical objects, and create virtual exhibits.
- Land, Literacies and Learning: Using documents from the Huron Diocesan Archive and rare books in the Huron Library Collection, students created maps of indigenous language publishers, virtual exhibits of rare books in indigenous languages and short Heritage Minute films documenting the lives of Ojibwa alumni of Huron.

MY HURON EXPERIENCE

The atmosphere – this small liberal arts school where I could really be part of a community and get to know my professors – drew me in. Professors here want to teach you. They care about students and they care about their subject matter. It makes going to class a lot more fun. And I have seminars with only eight people. Most people don't get that experience unless they go on to do a Masters at graduate school. ”
